Statement issued by EY Parent Council following the Tilsyn Report

The Parent Council is pleased to share that we are overall very satisfied with the findings of the recent kindergarten inspection. The report highlights a wide range of strengths within our learning environment, especially the excellent quality of indoor activities, enriching conversations, and the staff's thoughtful introduction of new vocabulary. We are particularly encouraged by the inspectors' recognition of the well-designed learning spaces, including diverse interest centres that inspire creativity, curiosity, and focused play. The presence of a rich variety of materials, ranging from books, puzzles, and construction toys to creative and mathematical tools, shows the school's strong commitment to holistic child development.

We are also pleased to see that staff engagement was noted as attentive, present, and supportive, fostering meaningful communication and social interaction among the children. The positive acknowledgment of inclusive materials and multicultural themes reflects values that are deeply important to our community. The inspectors' comments about the well-structured gross motor area, offering safe and stimulating opportunities for physical play, further reassure us that children experience a well-balanced day.

As a Parent Council, we have high confidence in the kindergarten's ability to respond constructively to the few areas for improvement mentioned in the report. We trust the team and leadership to continue strengthening outdoor learning opportunities and to build on the already strong indoor learning environment. We appreciate the dedication of the staff and management, and we look forward to supporting ongoing development that ensures our children thrive academically, socially, and emotionally.

Best Regards
